WHAT'S NEW

Reading: This past week we launched Reader's Workshop and our 1st Unit-Interpretation Book Clubs! We took our pre-assessment, had discussions and a mini-lesson on quality Stop and Jots, discussed reasons why one might abandon a book and how we are growing to grow our urgency to read, and finally shared our progression towards our reading goals. Speaking of goals, ask your reader about our House Reading Goal of reading 100 books by October 25th! Finally, ask your reader about our read aloud-When Stars are Scattered!

Math: This past week we launched our math program- Into Math. Our 1st unit is place value and multiplication. Inquire about our S.T.E.M. rocket exploration and the components of our math lesson. Please remind your child to show you their planner (if they have math to finish) and encourage them to practice their math facts! Freckle is a digital, individualized program we use at school and a tool that your child can use at home to practice their facts! They can also go on ALEKS and complete lessons. Next week they will be completing assigned lessons.

S.T.A.R. Testing: This week we took the S.T.A.R. test! This is another tool we use to collect data on reading and math skills and helps us ensure we are providing instruction at each scholar's level. Congrats to all students for trying their best!

Jobs: This past week, Pioneers applied for two House jobs! Ask your student what their job is and if they have been successfully completing it! Congrats, Pioneers on being responsible and proactive.

Book Recommendation: Saving Marty: "When Lorenzo adopts a runt piglet destined for auction, an unexpected, life-changing friendship forms." A beautiful read for animal lovers....

Leader in Me: This past week we participated in 2 Circle and Connection activities! I love these and it really helps us strive towards being a classroom that is-respectful, kind, helpful, collaborating, and achieving, and welcoming.
